To continue receiving our emails, add us to your address book.

The National Cherry Blossom Festival is looking for volunteers to assist with the program. Positions currently available are Balloon Handlers and Parade Ushers for the National Cherry Blossom Festival. Applicants must be at least 18 years old and have a positive attitude. Preference will be shown to applicants who have a high energy, fun-loving attitude. All volunteers will be provided t-shirts to wear as well as a travel pass to the festival. Applications for both positions are due April 12, 2019 and can be submitted online here.

The African Community Center (ACC) branch of the Community Resettlement Program is looking for people who can provide holistic resettlement programs to new arrivals in the United States. The ACC is looking for volunteers to work with the ACC's youth center and provide English classes and mentoring to children of immigrant and refugee families (ages 4-18). The ACC is looking for people who are passionate about working with children in a fun and creative setting. Applications are due April 15th, 2019 and can be submitted online here.

The GW Knowledge in Action Career Internship Fund (KACIF) is facilitated by The Nashman Center for Social Justice and the Office of Diversity, Equity, and Community Engagement. KACIF provides grants to social justice organizations, gap year programs, and domestic and international internships typically range from $2000 to $3000. To review more information, including eligibility requirements, application instructions, and terms and conditions, please click here.

The Curtis Scholarship Program is named in honor of Hawaii Senator Daniel K. Inouye, who worked hard to ensure that educational opportunities were accessible to all segments of society. The program is open to U.S. residents of African American, American Indian, Alaska Native, Asian Pacific Islander, Native Hawaiian or Other Pacific Islander descent. The 2019 Curtis Scholarship Program is now open and is due Wednesday, April 10th! For more information, please click here.

GW serves the community through various service opportunities. There are many options for the GW community to get involved and have an impact, including FLOC (Friend of the Family). FLOC’s mission is to support our children and families. They are looking for a summer intern to support their Summer Helping Young People Discover How They Can Change the World. Applications for this position are due March 28th, 2019 and can be submitted online here.

The Office of Diversity, Equity, and Community Engagement will host an annual commissioning and celebration of the 2019 Commissioners. The event will include a performance and presentation. Both positions will be available from 12pm to 1pm on Wednesday, April 10th! For more information, please contact Charity Eddleman at cgl2w@georgetown.edu.

The Office of Diversity, Equity, and Community Engagement will also host an annual celebration and commissioning of the 2019 Commissioners. The event will include a performance and presentation. Both positions will be available from 12pm to 1pm on Wednesday, April 10th! For more information, please contact Charity Eddleman at cgl2w@georgetown.edu.

The GWServes program is offering an online, 1 credit pass/fail summer course, "Social Justice: This Summer Course Opportunity." The course will be offered on Fridays from June 14th to July 12th, 2019. The course will focus on the political, social, economic, and environmental dimensions of justice with an emphasis on the role of individuals, organizations, and social movements in advocating for social justice. The course will include readings, discussions, and assignments to enhance understanding of social justice issues and strategies for addressing them. The course is open to all GW students who are interested in learning more about social justice issues and how they can take action to promote social justice. Applications for the course are due May 31st, 2019 and can be submitted online here.